Inter-College Declamation Competition under G20 Jan Bhagidari

On 14th September 2023, Rhetorque, the English Debating Society of Janki Devi Memorial College, hosted an inter-college declamation competition under G20 Jan Bhagidari. The theme for the competition was "India's G20 Presidency: A Chance To Make Its Mark?". The event was conducted offline and received multiple registrations out of which 12 participants gave their speeches on the day of the event.

The esteemed panel of judges for the event consisted of two notable individuals, Mr. Dinesh Ahirrao and Ms. Muskaan Grover. Mr. Ahirrao is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at Janki Devi Memorial College, University of Delhi. His expertise spans Political Theory, Western political thought and Indian government of politics. He is an active member of the ICT committee and has also been serving as a member of Pratibha, which offers foundation classes for competitive exams, since 2018. Ms. Muskaan Grover is an alumna of this college. She was a senior member of the Debating Society and participated in many parliamentary debates and won positions in multiple conventional and turncoat debates. Having served as the Vice President and Advisor to Rhetorque during her second and third years respectively, the political science graduate is now managing to expand her family business.

The competitors were allotted topics an hour prior to the competition. The topics given were:

- a) Does Jan Bhagidari offer actual participation and encourage collaborative solutions for development in the education policies of India at large?
- b) Is India's commitment to the SDGs reflected in its convergence with the national development agenda as reflected in the motto of collective efforts for inclusive growth?
- c) Does India's use of soft power (changing perceptions using values, morals, culture, etc.) provide it with more influence in global relations as compared to the use of hard power (military power, economic power)?
- d) Is India's push for digitalisation in G20 a way forward for realising the idea of Vasudeva Kutumbakam? (Empowering Digital India, UPI)
- e) Will India's presidency at G20 play a role in combatting climate change?

The competition served as a platform for the competitors to show their eloquence and intellectual prowess. After careful evaluation, the following students emerged as the winners:

-1st Place: Priyanshi Choudhary, B.A. (H) Political Science, IInd Year, Vivekananda College.

-2nd Place: Sharanyam Singh, B.A. (H) Political Science, IIIrd Year, PGDAV College.

-3rd Place: Pranjal Mishra, B.A. (H) English, IInd Year, Dyal Singh College.

The competition gave young minds a forum for conversation and reflection on the topic of India's G20 Presidency and the myriad aspects related to it.

Inter-College Declamation Competition under Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav

On 14 August 2023, Rhetorque, the English Debating Society of Janki Devi Memorial College, in collaboration with the Students Union, organised an Inter-College Declamation Competition. The theme for the Competition was “Azadi: A Chance to Be Better.” The event was conducted online and witnessed participation of 25 students from across colleges and was attended by 35 attendees.

The judges for the event were Dr. Md. Zubeer Ahmed and Ms. Ritigya Malik. Dr. Ahmed is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at Janki Devi Memorial College, University of Delhi. He is an expert in Political Conflicts in West Asia, Post-colonial State Politics, Gandhian Studies, Foreign Policy Analyses, and Access to Legal Rights. He has been actively involved in various academic and student-related initiatives and has served as the convenor of the department magazine Speculo, a member of the Vidya Vistar Committee, and the Convenor of Pratibha, which provides foundation classes for competitive exams. Ms. Ritigya Malik is an alumna of Janki Devi Memorial College and was a senior member of the Debating Society during her time (2018-21). With over 20 parliamentary debates under her belt, she achieved positions in multiple conventional and turncoat debates. She is an A level adjudicator and has excelled in various parliamentary tournaments, earning the title of quarterfinalist twice in her final year. Ms. Malik is currently pursuing her master’s degree in literature at Ashoka University and continues to be an active participant in debates and discussions.

The participants were assigned topics an hour before the competition related to the theme. The topics presented given to the participants were as follows:

1. Dominance of Political Left on Feminist Movements in Post-Colonial India Should Be Supported.
2. Post-Colonial India Should Emphasize Their Pre-Colonial History and Culture Instead of Focusing on the Impacts of Colonialism in Their History Curricula.
3. Can the Widespread Belief in the Left’s Idea of Revolution Be the Cause of Desirable Change in the Country?

4. The Significance of India's Independence Struggle in Shaping Today's National Identity and Values.

5. Do Indians Still Have a Deep-Rooted Colonial mind-set?

The competition gave the participants an opportunity to demonstrate their intellectual prowess and eloquence. After careful evaluation, the following students emerged as winners:

Ist Prize: Tanya Sood, B.A. (Hons.) Political Science, Miranda House.

IInd Prize: Palakh Saldhi, B.A. (Hons.) Philosophy, Lady Shri Ram College.

IIIrd Prize: Vivek Raj, B.A. (Hons.) English, Atma Ram Sanatan Dharma College.

The event provided a platform for young minds to engage in meaningful discourse and reflect on the notion of freedom as a catalyst for personal and societal growth.
