About Us

The Research Unit is essentially a multi-disciplinary collaboration. Its primary focus is on encouraging an analytical mindset among students that results in quality research by providing them appropriate training and tools. The Unit takes care of a significant lacuna in providing quality training to students at the undergraduate level by organising workshops, sessions and paper writing competitions to enable them to learn the basics of research and experiment with their interests.

Mission of the Unit

The Mission of Khoj is to make students learn the process of writing by conducting active Research. This is to enhance a student's academic profile by providing a good exposure to the field of research, and reinforcing the values of academic integrity, rigour and excellence. The journey of Khoj collectively engages students in writing and public presentation of research papers and trains them to be worthy researchers.

Need of a Student Research Body

- Multiple competitions, workshops and events based on research take place throughout Delhi University in an academic year. These opportunities, however, remain untapped by the students. The Unit is well informed about the competitions and encourage its members to participate.
- Even if students learn about these opportunities, very often students do not know how to proceed further. The Unit provides direction and opportunities to students on how to learn the basics of research, so that they feel confident about participating in such competitions.
- The Unit is a place where students can experiment with the type of papers they want to write, their writing and presentation styles and so on. One might not get a chance to try out different techniques and methods while working on major projects under the guidance of Professors.
- The Unit represents a body of students interested in the field of research. Their achievements will become a driving force for more students to join this Unit and learn academic skills.
