Brief Report

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Janki Devi Memorial College, in collaboration with the Vidya Vistar Committee (VVC), successfully organized an Online Interactive Session on “Enhancing Research Visibility and Academic Profiling: Publications, Citations and Researcher IDs.” The programme was conducted as a collaborative academic initiative with Mahatma Gandhi Government College (MGGC), University of Pondicherry, and Devnar Junior and Degree College, Hyderabad, Telangana. The session reflected a shared institutional commitment to strengthening research quality, improving academic outreach, and promoting best practices in scholarly communication.

The event was held under the guidance and encouragement of Prof. Swati Pal, Principal, Janki Devi Memorial College, whose constant support continues to foster an environment of academic innovation and excellence. The collaboration was further strengthened by the presence and institutional support of Prof. R.V.R. Murthy, Principal, Mahatma Gandhi Government College (MGGC), University of Pondicherry, and Mr. Baburao, Principal, Devnar Junior and Degree College, Hyderabad, Telangana. Their participation underscored the importance of inter-institutional cooperation in enhancing research capacity and academic networking.

The session was conducted by Dr. Ranjeet Kumar Singh, Assistant Librarian, Central Library, University of Delhi, an expert in Research Data Management and academic profiling systems. In his comprehensive and engaging presentation, Dr. Singh emphasized that in the contemporary academic ecosystem, the impact of research depends not only on quality but also on visibility, accessibility, and measurable reach. He explained the role of citation metrics such as the h-index, i10-index, and citation counts in assessing scholarly influence, while also cautioning against over-reliance on quantitative indicators.

The session provided detailed insights into major indexing platforms including Scopus and Web of Science, and highlighted the importance of maintaining accurate and updated researcher identifiers such as ORCID, Scopus Author ID, and Google Scholar profiles. Dr. Singh demonstrated how these tools ensure proper attribution of work, prevent duplication, and enhance discoverability in global academic databases.

He also addressed critical issues related to ethical publishing practices, identification and avoidance of predatory journals, and strategies for selecting appropriate journals for submission. Special attention was given to the preparation of effective Data Management Plans (DMPs) and the growing importance of organized research data in securing grants and ensuring transparency.

The interactive format of the session encouraged active engagement, with participants raising queries regarding publication strategies, citation tracking, profile management, and compliance with institutional and accreditation requirements. Faculty members from all participating institutions benefitted from the practical guidance and real-time demonstrations. The session concluded on a highly enriching note, equipping participants with actionable strategies to strengthen their academic presence and enhance their research impact in an increasingly digital and competitive scholarly landscape.

WHY RESEARCH VISIBILITY MATTERS

85%
of researchers say online visibility drives collaborations

3×
more citations for open & well-profiled research

40%+
of faculty report funding linked to citation metrics

Discoverability
Researchers with complete profiles are found more easily by collaborators, publishers, and funding agencies worldwide.

Career Advancement
Promotion committees, ranking systems, and accreditation bodies increasingly rely on verifiable publications and citation data.

Global Collaboration
Unique researcher IDs eliminate name ambiguity, enabling accurate attribution and facilitating interdisciplinary relationships.

Grant Opportunities
Funding bodies like DST, DBT, ICMR and international agencies require verifiable researcher profiles in grant applications.

An invisible researcher leaves impact on the table. Visibility = Impact.

YOUR RESEARCH IDENTITY

Why Multiple Platforms?

- Different databases index different journals
- Each platform serves different audiences
- Cross-platform presence maximizes discoverability
- Funders & institutions check specific platforms
- ORCID links them all with one universal ID

Pro Tip: Use ORCID as your master profile — it connects all platforms automatically.

⚠️ Predatory Journals – A Serious Threat to Research Integrity

What Are Predatory Journals?

Predatory journals exploit the Open Access model by charging Article Processing Charges (APCs) while providing no genuine peer review, editorial standards, or quality control. They prioritize profit over scholarly integrity. Coined by librarian Jeffrey Beall (Beall's List).

Scale of the Problem

~15,000+ predatory journals exist (2024 estimates). Over 400,000 papers published annually in predatory journals. Impact: NAAC/NIRF ranking bodies are now actively excluding predatory publications from metrics.

10 Red Flag Warning Signs

Unsolicited email invitations to submit (spam)	Fee demanded immediately upon submission (before review)
Promises of rapid peer review (24-48 hours)	Poor website quality, grammar errors, missing contact info
Impact factor claimed but not from Clarivate/JCR	ISSN exists but not verifiable in ISSN portal
Indexing claims: 'Google Scholar indexed' used to seem legitimate	Journal scope is absurdly broad ('all fields of science')
Editorial board members who never consented or don't exist	Published papers lack DOI, have no citation history at all
