OBSERVATIONS:

In the survey, 30-45% students strongly felt that they had attained the learning outcomes of the program, whereas 45-65% felt that they had attained the learning outcomes. Some students felt that they had not attained the learning outcomes of courses like GEC and SEC.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN:

Pedagogies and teaching-methods have to be in sync with the various issues that present-day learners face, to make the program more engaging and relevant. Enhanced usage of ICT and student-centric practices in the classroom will facilitate students to fully attain the program learning outcomes. With regard to skill-oriented courses a more practical approach geared towards students attaining an identifiable set of competencies and skills will be implemented.
